MINOT-SLEEPER LIBRARY—REPORT OF TRUSTEES

To the Inhabitants of the Town of Bristol:

The Trustees of the Library submit a brief report of the condition and management of the library during the past year. Public interest so far as expressed by patronage is gradually increasing and the patrons generally seem to have a due appreciation of the generosity of the town in supporting the same and of the labor and efforts of the management in its endeavor to furnish interesting, useful and instructive books and periodicals for the reading public, so far as the limited funds available for that purpose will permit.

Nine thousand six hundred forty books have been loaned from the circulation department and there have been about fourteen hundred patrons of the reading room.

One hundred and fifty new books have been added to the circulating department, fairly divided among the different departments. A few donations of books have been made by friends of the library, including among others the Autobiography of Joseph Choate, and late volumes of New Hampshire Supreme Court Reports, bringing the set owned by the library up to date. Several World War histories have been completed, especially those by McMaster, Simonds and Barrie. Also McMaster's History of the People of the United States has been completed.

With the greatly increased cost of labor and materials the purchasing power of the funds of the library has been much diminished, therefore contributions of useful and informing worth-while books are always welcome.

There have been no extraordinary expenses of the library for several years.

An addition to the present building is much needed. The basement is utilized for certain books that are less often used than others, but that will in the near future be no longer available. Plans for this addition by the town should soon be made unless some generous-minded donor or donors shall desire to add to the noble work of Judge Josiah Minot and Col. S. S. Sleeper. We trust that the friends of the library in making their wills will make some bequest thereto, either toward a new building or for books. Increased funds are needed not only for the purchase of new books but to maintain those previously purchased in years past, many of which wear rapidly and need to be replaced. A safe for the accessions book and valuable records of the library ought to be placed in the building.

The following magazines furnished by the Day Jackman fund may be found on the reading tables, viz., American Boy, Asia, Atlantic, Century, Garden Magazine, Geographic, Granite Monthly, Harpers, Ladies' Home Journal, Leslie's, Literary Digest, Modern Priscilla, North American Review, Outlook, Pictorial Review, Popular Mechanics, Review of Reviews, Scribners', Travel, World's Work, Youth's Companion, also American Forestry kindly contributed by Miss Margaret Whipple.

REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

To the Citizens of the School Districts of Bristol:—

I submit herein my third annual report as superintendent of schools.

The Statistical Table gives certain facts with regard to the schools. It will be seen that, for the first time, all the children of the town have had an opportunity to attend school thirty-six weeks during the year. It is true that the Burleigh school records only twenty-four weeks of school, but during the twelve weeks during which the school was closed, owing to the impossibility of securing a teacher, the pupils were transported to the village school in New Hampton, and so did not lose any time.

Town District

Two schools, the Foot-of-the-Lake and the Profile Falls, retained the teacher of the previous year. Miss Calley, after retiring from a long and successful experience in the village school, consented to take the little Dolloff school, and continued through the year. Mrs. Heath was obliged to give up her position at Thanksgiving time. The spring term was taught by Mrs. Seaver, and we fortunately have been able to retain her through the present year.

Most of the repairs and changes urgently needed on school houses have been made. It now remains to add the finishing touches, chiefly by means of paint and whitewash, to make the buildings homelike and attractive. This can be done at small expense, and will certainly be worth while in creating an atmosphere of beauty and refinement.

By a change in the educational act made by the last legislature it is now necessary for districts making application for state aid to raise a tax of one-half of one per cent upon the equalized valuation of the district, instead of upon the selectmen's valuation, as formerly. This makes a difference of some six hundred dollars in the case of the Bristol Town District.

Union District

It will be seen by the statistical table for 1920-21 that two changes in teachers were necessary during the year. Miss Wood resigned as teacher of grades V-VI, and her place was filled by the election of Miss Bean. Mrs. Smith's health failed towards the close of the year, and her place was taken by Miss Rollins. It proved necessary to discontinue the courses in manual training when Mrs. Smith left, and no teacher has yet been found to continue that work.

We were able to retain three of our regular teaching force for the present school year, together with our supervisor of music. All of them took courses in the summer school at Plymouth, and profited greatly by this study. Miss Hanson resigned at the close of the year to become Mrs. Allard, to the regret of her pupils and fellow workers, and her place was filled by the election of Mrs. Bacon, already favorably known in the district. Miss Bean declined a re-election, and Miss Calley was induced to resume a position in the school for a time. When it became impossible for her to go on we were fortunate in finding Mrs. Jones at hand. Miss Rollins did not care to continue her work as language teacher, and Miss Rowley has filled this position acceptably during the present year. The teaching force has been increased for the year by the addition of Miss Ardena L. Ingalls to assist in the work of the three overcrowded lower rooms.

I cannot refrain from adding a word in appreciation of the teaching force of both districts, with some members of which I have been working for nearly three years. I do not believe the community adequately appreciates the devotion, sound good sense, industry and intelligence which this body of workers daily displays in caring for the children of the town. I have found them absolutely loyal, and immediately responsive to any proposition to increase the efficiency of teaching, even though the project is sure to involve added labors for themselves. They are worthy of the best that the community can do in acknowledgment of their services.

The most pressing problem at the moment is the matter of school accommodations. The present building is unsatisfactory for three reasons. First, the light is insufficient and poorly placed. Second, there is no system of ventilation, and in some rooms it is impossible to secure sufficient fresh air from open windows without creating dangerous drafts. Third, the capacity of the building is insufficient for our needs, and is constantly growing more so. The school population shows a tendency to increase slowly. We have already over fifty pupils in each of the three rooms occupied by the elementary grades. With this number of pupils and with two grades in a room it is impossible for a teacher to do the best work with her classes and pupils cannot make the progress which they normally should. We have been able to employ an assistant to overcome this handicap in part only because the manual training room was not in use for the year, and has afforded a not altogether suitable room for small groups of pupils needing assistance. The room on the second floor of this small building, admirably suited for domestic arts, is shared by the teacher of this subject and the language teacher, who has no other place in which to meet her classes. It is plain that a further increase in the number of pupils, an increase altogether probable, will completely overwhelm us. It is to be hoped that the district, through the school meeting, will take steps to give this matter careful and adequate attention.

The work of the junior high school, including the seventh and eighth grades, has been raised to the point where, had we been able to continue the work in manual training, we could have received the approval of the state department as a standard school. Cooking has been added to the work in sewing for the girls of these grades, so that the courses in domestic arts are complete.

The addition of a curriculum in commerce to the program of the senior high school has proved immediately popular and successful. Of the fifteen present members of the ninth grade ten have elected this course, and of the eighteen members of the tenth grade fifteen have done the same, and one other member is taking the commercial subjects as an extra in addition to the studies of the classical course. If this curriculum were continued for two more years it would include typewriting and shorthand, with possibly commercial law and office practice, and graduates would go out prepared to accept office positions without further training.

I have spoken in each of my annual reports of the possibility of extending the high school program to include the last two years. The school has increased in numbers from seventeen to thirty-three in two years. There is an increasing tendency everywhere to seek the higher education. It is now the normal thing for young people of average mental ability to complete at least the high school course, and so many are pressing into the higher schools that the colleges are well nigh swamped. The district can give its young people the advantages of a complete high school for a small additional cost, aside from the cost of building. The amount which would be saved from tuitions of those going to other schools, together with that earned from students coming to this high school from neighboring towns, would go far towards meeting the added expense for instruction. This would probably involve only the salary of one more teacher, depending, of course, upon the extent of the program of instruction offered by the school.

Most people realize the value of a high school education in the personal satisfaction which it gives, in its breadth of view and mental discipline, and in its power to enable the graduate to meet persons of culture upon equal terms. Few realize the actual cash value of such training. An investigation of the earning power of boys with different types of education, made a few years ago, demonstrated the fact that boys who went to work at fourteen were at the age of twenty-five earning an average of $12.75 a week. Boys who continued in school four years longer were earning an average of $31 a week, although they were four years behind the others in starting. These figures are vouched for by the U. S. Bureau of Education. The town of Bristol owes it to its young people not to handicap them by the lack of advantages which are offered to the young people of other similar towns in the state.

Respectfully submitted,

CHARLES A. BRECK,
Superintendent of Schools.
